The image shows the exterior of the Watershed building, a two-story brick structure with a rooftop patio. The building features large windows on the ground floor and a balcony with a black metal railing on the second floor. A sign above the entrance reads "1846 WATERSHED". The rooftop patio is furnished with tables, chairs, and potted plants. The building is located on a street corner, and a street sign is visible on the corner.

Cross Keys is being redeveloped by Caves Valley Partners (CVP), Baltimore's leader in unlocking value through creative development and redevelopment of infill locations. A privately held company with deep local roots, CVP works across all sectors but limits its portfolio geographically, committed to improving our home region through projects such as Cross Keys. From urban, mixed-use developments to office, industrial, and traditional retail, CVP delivers projects that push the envelope, challenge creativity, and benefit the broader community.
